

This method returns a list of all the values available in a given dictionary.

Example

The following example shows the usage of values() method.

```
#!/usr/bin/python

dict = {'Name': 'Zara', 'Age': 7}

print "Value : %s" % dict.values()
```

When we run above program, it produces following result:

```
Value : [7, 'Zara']
```